DWAYNE BRYANT

The college experience can be incredibly challenging for many students. Every college student needs a 'Big Brother' who can motivate him or her to successfully navigate the college terrain. Dwayne Bryant is uniquely qualified for this role having 'wrote the book' on the college experience. To be a true 'Big Brother' and educational mentor, a person must have maximized their college experience, been a recognized student leader and created great success, which Big Brother DB has done.

So, WHO is Big Brother DB anyway?!

Dwayne Bryant graduated college with honors on a full academic scholarship. Although he was raised in a single-family household and was the second youngest child of seven, he was the first to graduate college. All of this positioned him for a successful career at the corporate level with Johnson & Johnson. After discovering his life's purpose, Dwayne resigned from his position at the height of his lucrative sales career to begin his venture as a social entrepreneur positively impacting the lives of others.

Dwayne is an author, mentor, motivator, community leader, alumni of the FBI Citizen's Academy, Community Advisor for the Civilian Office of Police Accountability and has positively impacted the lives of more than one million individuals.
